PANZERS 40 MILES FROM STALINGRAD

BERLIN SAYS DECISIVE BATTLE BEGUN

NORTH-WEST and South-west of Stalingrad tremendous battles are being fought as Marshal Timoshenko strives to stem the two-way German drive for Russia's third greatest city.

Vichy quotes a despatch from the Kotelnikovo sector which says that a Panzer group has thrust fifty miles beyond the town, and is now only forty miles south-east of Stalingrad.

Moscow reports that the situation has seriously deteriorated in the last two days, and that in the Don elbow a formidable force of German tanks and infantry has forced its way across the river, while to the south-west the Russians have been pushed back in several sectors.

In the Caucasus, south-east of Piatigorsk, the Russians have had to withdraw to new positions, but in the Kuban the pace of the twin thrust for the Black Sea ports is slowed by fierce delaying actions.

MOSCOW, Monday. — Reuter's Correspondent here states:—"The threat to Stalingrad, menaced by Marshal von Bock's two-way drive, has become much more grave. The position west and south-west of the city has seriously deteriorated in the last twenty-four hours. In the Don elbow German tanks and infantry have forced their way across the river, while in the south-west Marshal Timoshenko's forces have been pushed back in some sectors.

"A new danger has developed in the Kotelnikovo sector, where the Germans who have crossed the Don further north may try to develop a flank attack against the Russian defenders between the railway and the river.

"South-east of Piatigorsk, where the Germans are making a determined bid to capture the approaches to the mountain passes leading to Trans-Caucasia, Russian troops have had to withdraw to new positions. The Russians are still on the defensive in the Kuban, holding up the German advance on the Black Sea ports as long as possible. Russian artillery is still predominant in this sector, helping to restore the balance against the enemy's overwhelming superiority in infantry and tanks.

PIATIGORSK TAKEN

LONDON, Monday.—"A Russian unit between Moscow and Leningrad has dislodged the Germans from eleven blockhouses, Moscow radio stated to-day. Thirteen German counter-attacks were beaten off and 250 Germans killed, while artillery killed 400 Germans in two days on the same front.

"The Germans have captured Piatigorsk," M. Yaroslavsky, a leading Soviet publicist, disclosed in the Moscow broadcast to-night.

BERLIN, Monday.—Foreign journalists in Berlin were called to a special conference at the German Foreign Office to-day, when a German spokesman told them: "Special attention should be devoted to the fact that, as already announced, entire German infantry divisions and mobile troops have forced a crossing in the Don bend. The great and decisive battle for Stalingrad has now begun."—(Reuter.)

A despatch to the Vichy News Agency from the Kotelnikovo front says that violent battles are now raging at Abganerovo, 40 miles south-west of Stalingrad. From Kotelnikovo this represents an advance of 55 miles towards Stalingrad. —(Reuter.)

An Italian war correspondent, quoted by Rome Radio to-day, said that the Italians fighting on the Don front found "mines everywhere. "There were metal mines and wooden mines, mines which we had never seen before, and mines which exploded at the slightest shock. There were mines attached to barbed wire, which our men called 'devil danglers.' You had only to touch them, however slightly, and they exploded."—(Reuter.)

SOVIET COMMUNIQUE

MOSCOW, Monday.—To-night's Soviet communiqué states:—"During August 24 our troops fought the enemy in the area south-east of Kletskaya, in the area of Prohladnaya and south of Krasnodar.

"Our warships in the Gulf of Finland sank one German transport of 7,000 tons.

[Prohladnaya is 50 miles along the railway running south-east from Pistigorsk, along the Caucasian mountain foothills to the Caspian port of Makach Kala.]

"In the area south of Krasnodar, the enemy, having concentrated considerable forces in one sector, pressed back one of our units and occupied two inhabited localities. In another sector 150 enemy officers and men were killed and one battery of heavy artillery was destroyed, together with three trench mortar batteries. In the area of Prohladnaya our troops fought defensive engagements with enemy tanks and infantry. Soviet tank officers disabled four German tanks.

"In the area north-west of Kotelnikovo our units fought considerable forces of enemy tanks and infantry which had driven a wedge into our positions. A sudden blow resulted in the enemy losing eleven tanks destroyed, eight anti-tank guns, and 300 officers and men killed. Near a railway station machine-gun and trench-mortar fire exterminated two Rumanian companies as they attempted to attack our positions."—(Reuter.)

PARK DEER A LA LAPLAND

A STRONG counter-attack has been made on the matter of the Phœnix Park deer. Some of the people who have been trying to prevent the slaughter of the herd are now suggesting that the herd be increased. Linked with this suggestion is a proposal that the herd be domesticated à la Lapland, where, according to a Dublin authority, the deer serves as horse, cow, goat and sheep, all in one. In short, the herd would be looked after on stock-farming principles, and the public would enjoy the benefits of a regular supply of venison, and also of deer's milk. The milk is stated to have the advantage over cow's milk in that it is practically free from tuberculosis germs.

It is not proposed that all the herd be retained in the Phœnix Park, but that it be broken up into fairly large groups and sent to places where the animals could be looked after by specially-trained herdsmen. It would take three years to domesticate the herd, and after that they would be as easy to handle as a herd of cattle.

In the meantime, work is continuing on the corral being erected for the slaughter, and it is expected to be ready about the end of this week. It has also been stated that the best cuts of venison will be on sale in Dublin at prices ranging from 1/- to 1/4 per lb.

Further representations are being made to Mr. de Valera to see if anything can be done to stop the killing of the major part of the herd.

BERLIN, Monday.—Herr Hitler has appointed Dr. Thierack, President of the People's Court, as Minister of Justice, vacant since the death of Dr. Guertner.

REPUBLICS WILL AID BRAZIL

NON-BELLIGERENT RIGHTS ACCORDED

LIMA, Monday — Following a meeting of the Peruvian Cabinet, presided over by Dr. Prado, the President, it was officially stated that Peru considers the Axis attack on Brazil as an aggression against the American Republics, in accordance with the Havana resolution.

Consequently, Peru is according Brazil non-belligerent treatment. In accordance with the Havana resolution, Peru will propose that the South American Republics should remain permanently in consultation regarding collective measures to be taken for continental defence.—(Reuter.)

URUGUAY HELPS

MONTEVIDEO, Monday.—Uruguay has decided to accord Brazil non-belligerent rights, the Uruguayan Foreign Minister, Señor Guani, said to-day.

A Reuter message from Santiago de Chile quotes Chile's Note to Brazil as recognising the latter as a non-belligerent, and stating that the Chilean Government undertakes to prevent all anti-Brazilian activities on Chilean territory. The Chilean Government was agreed in regarding Brazil's attitude as justified.

In a message to the Brazilian President, President Rios, of Chile, expresses his Government's solidarity and that of the Chilean people, based both on an interpretation of international agreements and on the traditional friendship of the two countries.

WASHINGTON, Monday.—Military representatives of 21 American Republics, making up the Inter-American Defence Board, to-day unanimously adopted a resolution of "adherence and friendship" on Brazil's declaration of war.

General Espinosa, Chilean delegate, told the conference: "Chile cannot remain silent or indifferent to the sinking of Brazilian ships. I can assure the Board that my country will continue her loyal, sincere, effective and practicable collaboration within her already-defined policy of continental solidarity."—(Reuter.)

BUENOS AIRES, Monday.—Informed Argentine sources said to-day that a decree according Brazil non-belligerent status, following her declaration of war, would be presented to a Cabinet meeting to-day, and was expected to be approved by President Castillo.

Non-belligerent status, which Argentina has already accorded the U.S., means that Brazilian ships may use Argentine ports.—(The Associated Press.)

PORTUGAL'S MESSAGE

LISBON, Monday—The Portuguese Cabinet, at a special meeting last night, decided to ask the Portuguese Ambassador in Rio De Janeiro to convey this message to the Brazilian Government:—"The Portuguese Government, whose juridical position adopted in the present war has never signified a rupture of historical links with other countries, is more closely linked with Brazil than any other country, because of ties of blood. At the moment when Brazil enters the war, the Portuguese Government wishes to express the sentiments of fraternal friendship, moral solidarity and sincere feeling with which the Portuguese people think of their Brazilian sister people in the attitude they have taken in defence of what they consider to be their honour and their rights."—(Reuter.)

ANOTHER SHIP SUNK

RIO DE JANEIRO, Monday—The Brazilian Government to-day announced the sinking of the tanker Luisiana, voyaging from Santos to Rio de Janeiro.

Demonstrations against the presence of German workmen were made to-day in two German-Brazilian establishments, the Brahma Brewery and the Botafogo Textile Mills.—(Reuter.)

LORD MAYOR ELECTION ON SATURDAY

A letter from the Minister for Local Government, which was received at the City Hall yesterday, confirms the statement in yesterday's Irish Times that the Corporation will meet next Saturday to elect a new Lord Mayor.

Many people hold that, despite the changed personnel of the Corporation which resulted from the local government election, the present Lord Mayor would remain in office until next July. On the other hand, it was pointed out that if this interpretation were correct, a Lord Mayor who was a defeated candidate in the local elections could retain his office, and would "be chairman of a body of which he was not a member."

AIR RAIDS ON ROUEN

FRENCH PROTEST TO U.S.

LONDON, Monday.—The following announcement has been issued by Headquarters, European Theatre of Operations, United States Army, and the British Air Ministry:—

"This afternoon United States Army Air Force Flying Fortresses attacked the enemy shipyards at Latrait, near Rouen. Escort was provided by fighter squadrons of the Royal Air Force, the Royal Canadian Air Force, the Polish Air Force and the United States Army Air Force. All the Fortresses reached the target and bombed from a high level. One encountered a Focke Wulf on the return journey, and a small number of the crew were wounded. All the bombers returned. Two Focke Wulf were destroyed by escorting fighters, two of which are missing."—(Press Association.)

VICHY, Monday.—The French Government has protested to America against the U.S. Army Air Force raid on Rouen last Monday. The protest stated that France took the attitude that all installations in occupied France not actually of a German military nature were under French Government protection, and raised the whole question of the Government's attitude to Allied military operations in occupied France. Since the U.S. maintains friendly diplomatic relations with France the Government adopted the position that the U.S. had no right to make assaults upon areas under its protection, whether under German occupation or not. It was reported that 46 persons were killed, 101 wounded, and 46 houses destroyed in the attack.—(Associated Press.)

ESCAPED INTERNEE TAKEN

Three of the nine British internees who escaped from the Curragh are still at liberty.

The Government Information Bureau stated yesterday that another of the men had been captured during the week-end.

CLAY-BUILT HOUSES FOR RURAL AREAS

THE Industrial Research Council is to consider the question of using clay for house-building, the possibilities of which were discussed originally in this newspaper at the end of last month. Following the publication of the suggestion in the Irish Times, a survey of clay-built houses was made in North County Dublin, where many fine examples still exist, and are occupied.

Now, Mr. Frank Gibney, the well-known Dublin architect, who has interested himself in the project, has written to the Secretary, Industrial Research Council, advocating the use of clay in buildings such as cottages and farm structures.

Last night Mr. Gibney discussed this new solution to the cement shortage with an Irish Times reporter. "I am proposing to build houses of marl clay, strengthened with straw," he said. "This clay is a sub-soil, and is plentiful in this country. Such houses formerly were built by hand. Now, with modern machine methods and the appliance of building by-law requirements, better results will be achieved."

WARM AND DRY

Mr. Gibney said that the old "mud" cottages were not damp. They were warm and dry, he said; and in the new building they would be improved by the use of damp-proof courses. The clay houses were not suggested for city dwellings, but for one-storey rural cottages, where the principal material is to be found as a sub-soil, thus saving transport.

Mr. Gibney said that, owing to the prevailing shortage of cement, together with general transport difficulties, large scale unemployment in the building trades was bound to come. A measure of alleviation in, at least, the rural areas would be a use of clay in buildings for cottages and farm structures.

CLAY BLOCKS

With his letter to the Research Council, Mr. Gibney has sent hand-made blocks, which he recently made from marl clay found eighteen inches below top-soil in his garden at Sutton. He also sent particulars of clay-built structures already erected in England, and photographs showing methods of construction and finishings.

Century-old mud cottages are still inhabited in Rush, County Dublin. As far back as 1919, local authorities in England began to build such dwellings to meet housing demands aggrevated by the shortage of essential materials. Some of these dwellings were two-storeyed, slate-roofed, and compared favourably from the point of view of comfort with brick or stone buildings.

"14 ALLIED WARSHIPS SUNK"

JAPANESE STORY OF SOLOMONS

LONDON, Monday.—The Japanese Domei Agency issued to-day the following account of the Solomon Islands naval battle from Japanese Correspondents on board a warship:

"On the night of August 8 the Japanese Navy, in a daring thrust into the narrow sea channel near Tulagi Island, virtually annihilated an Anglo-American combined fleet. The Allied ships when sighted were steaming slowly. A Japanese reconnaissance 'plane dropped three signal flares, and immediately the main batteries of our flagship fired, and almost simultaneously a pillar of fire rose slightly astern on the starboard side. An enemy warship, torn amidships, was silhouetted in the glare rising high into the air. As it became a ball of flame a torpedo struck the sinking vessel. That was the end of the heavy British cruiser, Australia."

DECKS ABLAZE

The flagship's searchlights were then stated to have illuminated a "three-funnelled enemy cruiser, whose decks were set ablaze as the flagship's batteries repeatedly fired. The sea was lit by burning enemy ships, our searchlights and the glare of roaring guns. An enemy warship, recognised as the Astoria type, an American 'A' class cruiser, rushed towards our Fleet with two-thirds of its length in flames, but its forward guns still firing. The whole ship became a ball of fire, but still it valiantly kept its machine-guns firing, the bullets hammering against the flagship's armour. Then a tremendous explosion occurred amidships the cruiser, blowing away its bridge. The battle raged at such close quarters that our flagship almost touched the enemy warships.

"The fight was over in 36 minutes. Only two Japanese warships, including the flagship, were hit, and casualties, which all occurred on board the flagship, were very few."

The report gave the Allies' losses as seven "A" class cruisers, one "B" class cruiser, and six destroyers sunk and two destroyers heavily damaged.—(Reuter.)

AIR RAIDS IN DESERT

CAIRO, Monday.—British and United States airmen made a combined attack on Axis targets in the Middle East last night. Hits were obtained on a hangar at Maritza, Rhodes Island. Over the Egyptian battle area a large force of 'planes attacked Axis tanks, vehicles and tents. Many direct hits and near misses were scored.—(Reuter.)

CO. LEITRIM DROWNING

BOATING TRAGEDY DESCRIBED

A STORY of tragedy and heroism was told at the inquest in Ballinamore, County Leitrim, yesterday, on the six young persons who lost their lives in a boating accident on Sunday. The verdict was that five of the victims died from drowning, and one—Maureen Moran—from shock, due to immersion.

The dead were: Carmel Prior (16), Maureen Moran (16), Maureen Rowley (17), Minnie Walsh (16), Sean Wisely (20), and Sean Dolphin (19).

The Coroner was Dr. J. J. Walsh, and the evidence of Vincent Keegan, who was also in the boat, was that thirteen boys and girls left Ballinamore cycling. When they got to Carrickmakeegan Bridge, spanning the canal and leading to Garradice Lake, they got him to get his brother's boat—a flat-bottomed one—and go for a cruise on the lake.

He got it over from the lake shore to within sixty yards of the canal bridge, where the water was from 20 to 25 feet.

When the party got into it there was a splash, and, as it began to fill, all plunged to get out, except him, and struggled for the bank. Though not a swimmer, he tried to save Minnie Walsh, but someone pulled him into the water. He made for the bank, and Bernadette Wisely held on to him and was saved. He saved Betty Bohan, pulled in Dolan and Teresa Martin, but failed to rescue Dolphin. The boat did not capsize, and had the party remained quiet nobody would have been lost. Noel Dolan said there were too many in the boat. He undressed and swam to Dolphin, who caught him round the neck but he got clear and held Dolphin until the latter let his hand go and drifted away.

FLOATING BODIES

Hugh Baxter, who was attracted to the canal by the cries, said he recovered the floating body of Miss Prior and applied artificial respiration, without result. He saw Maureen Moran floating in the water, but she was too far away, and, as he could not swim, she sank out of his sight.

Dr. P. J. Maroney gave medical evidence.

The jury, Coroner and Garda Inspector Carthy expressed sympathy with the parents and relatives, and the Coroner said that he would bring to the attention of the authorities the heroism of Dolan and Keegan.

The remains, which lay in the Hall, were removed to the church yesterday afternoon. There will be a public funeral to-day.

Carmel Prior was daughter of Mr. Francis Prior, building and public works contractor; Maureen Moran, of Mr. Patrick Moran, coachbuilder; Maureen Rowley, of Mr. Patrick Rowley, engine-driver, G.S.R.; Minnie Walsh, of Mr. Walsh, locomotive superintendent, G.S.R. Sean Wisely, was son of Mr. Michael Wisely, a guard on the G.S.R., and Sean Dolphin, of Mr. Joseph Dolphin, garage proprietor.

CARRIER 'PLANE SHOT DOWN

A three-engined Italian S.M.82, laden with troops, was shot down into the sea by a long-range R.A.F. fighter over the Mediterranean on Sunday. A few hours later a Heinkel 111—the second German bomber destroyed by night fighters in three nights' operations over the Suez Canal—was destroyed.—(P.A.)

AXIS SHIP SUNK

British submarines have scored more successes in the Mediterranean and off the Norwegian coast. An Admiralty communiqué yesterday stated:—"In the Central Mediterranean a submarine, under the command of Lieut. T. E. Barlow, R.N., sank a medium-sized enemy supply ship, which had been bombed and stopped by aircraft of the R.A.F. The submarine attacked, and a tremendous explosion followed. The enemy ship sank immediately.

"A submarine, under the command of Lieut.-Comdr. M. R. G. Wingfield, R.N., attacked an escorted convoy off the Norwegian coast, and scored a hit on the leading merchant ship, which is believed to have been sunk."

BRITISH 'PLANES DOWN

BERLIN, Monday.—A British 'plane crashed into the sea to-day in the Straits of Gibraltar, near Algeciras, Eastern Spain. Spanish fishing boats were damaged when the aircraft's bombs exploded. Five of the crew of eight were saved.—(Reuter.)

A British military 'plane landed near Berne to-day owing to engine trouble. The crew of two, as well as the 'plane, were interned.—(Reuter.)

"HOUR IS VERY DARK"

DETROIT, Monday.—Attorney-General Francis Biddle to-day called upon the people of America and Canada to brush away "hesitations, distrusts and jealousies," which were "delaying the ultimate victory of the democracies." "Make no mistake," he said, "the hour is very dark. The legions of the enemy march still as conquerors in Russia, in the Mediterranean, in Asia. You, Canadians," he added, "have much longer known sacrifice and endurance than we, but we are beginning to apprehend them."—(Reuter.)

HOWTH'S 600 YEARS OLD TRADITION ENDS

By Staff Reporter.

FROM yesterday, anyone addressing a too cocky young Howth man as a "Greater Dublin jackeen," would be literally correct; for, yesterday morning the bolt which Howth had expected to fall, not quite so soon after the local elections, did fall.

Notice was received in the office of the former Howth Council that yesterday was the "Appointed Day" for the coming into effect of the Act making their area, with Sutton, part of Greater Dublin. Up to yesterday evening, however, word had not been received as to how long the Council employés would be given to wind up their affairs. A Local Government official recalled that when the Pembroke township was annexed to Dublin several months elapsed between the "Appointed Day" and the closing down of the Pembroke township offices.

VEXED QUESTIONS

The old and vexed question, "Where can I get a drink in Dublin after hours?" may also be raised in connection with the amalgamation. Howth is now part of Dublin, but its publicans say that they are going to continue to exercise their bona-fide privileges until they receive an order to the contrary. For example, a man could be bona-fide in Howth at any time on Sunday, whereas in Dublin he could not attain that privileged state till after 5 p.m. Other questions which may come up are questions about the chemists' hours of closing and of local railwaymen's wages, for which the standards in Dublin differ from Howth. The "Appointed Day" has come so suddenly, however, that most Howth people have been taken unawares, and they do not know where they stand about these matters.

Visitors to the new suburb reported that the people seemed to be taking their new status as citizens of Dublin with neither elation nor grief. In fact, they seemed to go about their business very much as if their 600-year-old tradition of existence as a separate community meant very little to them.

DUBLIN WASTE PAPER COLLECTION

NINE TONS LAST WEEK

About nine tons of waste paper was the total collected by the Dublin house-to-house teams last week. This was about double the total of the preceding week. If collection continued at this rate it would fall far short of meeting the requirements of the Dublin daily newspapers.

Most of the teams collected about one ton of paper, but one team collected one ton and six cwts. To put the collection on an economic basis, however, each team will have to reach a figure of two tons per week. Yesterday two of the teams reached the 6-cwt. figure, while several of the others who were short of this figure have done better than they were doing last week.

WASTE PAPER

In the theatres and cinemas the effects of the paper-saving campaign are beginning to be noticed in the form of cleaner floors and less tightly packed ash-trays. Mr. John Lyons, of the Savoy Cinema group, said that formerly they used to have several sacks of paper every week for the St. John Ambulance Brigade, but for the last few weeks they had had very little. That was partly due to the fact that cigarettes and chocolates were no longer sold in cartons, but he though it was also due to the fact that people were becoming tidier in their habits, and were putting their waste paper in the baskets and receptacles provided for that purpose.

THE REPRIEVE APPEAL

The Rev. Dr. A. Wylie Blue, minister of the May Street Presbyterian Church, Belfast, and five men, described as "prominent citizens and members of the laity" have signed the following in connection with the appeal for a reprieve of the six Belfast youths sentenced to death for the murder of Constable Patrick Murphy on Easter Sunday:

"We deplore the murder of a gallant constable while in the execution of his duty, and we believe that the trial was properly conducted. We, however, believe that the necessary protection of our police can be provided for, and the ends of justice met by a punishment short of the execution of the six young men."

Mr. Sean MacBride, chairman of the Reprieve Committee, Dublin, has had the following telegram from Ald. Tohan, Mayor of Sligo: "Representing citizens of Sligo, pledge support to your committee. Cordially accept invitation to national conference at the Mansion House on Thursday next."

LEGISLATURE TO MEET

NEW DELHI, Monday.—The British Viceroy has decided to summon both Chambers of the Central Indian Legislature, in Delhi, starting on September 14, states an official announcement to-day. It had been decided to hold the autumn session in late October, but the announcement states that the Governor-General, in consultation with his colleagues, now desires to summon it earlier to "discuss the situation which has since developed in India."

Demonstrators were to-day reported to be out again in Calcutta, but the police took strong measures. There was no violence. It was officially stated that the situation in the Madras Presidency shows an improvement.

Six persons were killed and eight wounded near Sajhanwa, in the Gorakhpur district of the United Provinces, yesterday, when the police were forced to open fire on a defiant mob, says a Reuter Bombay message.

Washington, Monday. — Tyrone Power, the film star, became a private in the U.S. Marines to-day. He will finish a picture about the Navy before holding active status.—(Associated Press.)

MR. CHURCHILL BACK IN ENGLAND

ARRIVAL BY 'PLANE LAST NIGHT

MR. CHURCHILL arrived back in England by air last night a few minutes after black-out time. His arrival marks the end of thousands of miles of journeying by air, during which he visited Moscow for historic talks with M. Stalin, and the Egyptian war front and Cairo for discussions with Allied War Chiefs.

Mrs. Churchill was at the airport to greet him as he stepped from the 'plane wearing Air Commodore's uniform. She was accompanied by Major Randolph Churchill. Air Chief Marshal Sir Charles Portal, Chief of the Air Staff, was also present, and among those who travelled back with Mr. Churchill were Mr. Averell Harriman, who was greeted by his daughter; General Sir Alan Brooke, Sir Alexander Cadogan and Sir Charles Wilson. Immediately after landing the Prime Minister went by special train to London.

SPITFIRE ESCORT

Mr. Churchill travelled in a huge Liberator machine. Although it was dusk, the escort of Spitfires, in thick formation, were clearly silhouetted against a canopy of clouds. Captain Van Der Kloot, First Pilot, brought the Liberator into a perfect landing. Mr. Churchill, looking extremely well, quickly climbed down the ladder, and, a moment or two later, embraced Mrs. Churchill, and then shook hands with his son, Randolph, and Sir Charles Portal. After he had good-humouredly posed for a photograph, he introduced the members of the Liberator crew to Mrs. Churchill. Then, with no delay, he was driven to a special train which was waiting for him near the aerodrome, and he was soon on his way to London.

Mr. Churchill's absence from Britain was officially disclosed on August 17, when the announcement was made that he had attended important four-day talks in Moscow, initiated by M. Stalin. Subsequently it became known that during long journeyings he paid a visit to Egypt, and went to the El Alamein front, where his unexpected appearance, under the nom-de-guerre of "Mr. Bullfinch," had a most heartening effect on the men of the Eighth Army. In Cairo he met General Smuts, and, during his visit to Egypt, King Farouk, General Sir Archibald Wavell, General Sir Henry Wilson and General Auchinleck. The distance covered by Mr. Churchill in this last tour was tremendous. The flight to Cairo alone would have been upwards of 5,000 miles.

DESERT VISITS

With him throughout were his doctor, Sir Charles Wilson; his private secretary, Mr. T. R. Bowan; his private detective, Inspector W. H. Thompson, and his valet, Mr. Tom Sawyers. In the Western desert Mr. Churchill, accompanied by distinguished Generals, visited Australian headquarters, a South African field workshop, and drove to a point at which a few days earlier there had been some of the heaviest fighting. He conversed with the Eighth Army Divisional Commanders and many Brigade Commanders, and lunched at the R.A.F. Desert headquarters. Apart from discussions with several leading military and political personages, he addressed representative gatherings of Staff officers, officials, and British residents.

In Russia Mr. Churchill joined in three-Power discussions in which America was represented, among others, by Mr. Averell Harriman, the Lease-Land expert, who travelled with the Prime Minister.

ARRIVAL IN LONDON

Mr. Churchill arrived in London at a late hour, and was welcomed by a great number of celebrities, who included Cabinet Ministers, Ambassadors, members of Parliament and high officers of the War Office and Admiralty. The gathering was so large that he could not shake hands with many of those who welcomed him. Among them were M. Maisky, Russian Ambassador, and Madame Maisky. Cabinet Ministers were in all kinds of dress, and some of them were hatless.

Shortly before midnight Mr. Churchill arrived at Downing street, accompanied by Mrs. Churchill, Mr. Attlee and Mr. Eden. "I am very glad to be back," Mr. Churchill said to a reporter. Before entering No. 10 he posed for a photograph—by infra-red process, so that the "black-out" restrictions were not broken. Downing street was deserted.

MEATH 'PLANE CRASH

INQUEST ON POLISH PILOT

A formal inquest was held yesterday on the body of a Polish Flying Officer, who died on Sunday as the result of injuries sustained in an aeroplane crash, in the Ratoath district, Co. Meath, following an aerial combat with a German 'plane.

The inquest was held at St. Bricin's Hospital, Dublin, by Dr. J. P. Shanley, Deputy City Coroner. The deceased officer was Bolesław Sawiak, a 24-year-old pilot officer of the Polish Air Force attached to the British Army.

Only medical evidence was given to the effect that P.O. Sawiak had sustained multiple injuries, and the Coroner returned a verdict of death from shock and hæmorrhage.

COALITION FOR EIRE

ALD. BYRNE'S PLAN

Commenting on a statement in the Irish Times editorial yesterday, that he would like to see the two major political parties in this country "act together and form a coalition Government," Alderman A. Byrne, T.D., told an Irish Times reporter last night that such a political front was a narrower coalition than he had in mind.

"Actually, I would like to see the three major parties combine, with a representative of the non-party group, preferably a deputy representing one of the northern constituencies of Eire," said Alderman Byrne, "and form a coalition Government which would carry on the administration of Eire until six months after the conclusion of the war. Such a political move would spare the country the disturbance caused by a general election, which might merely lead to another stalemate. I think it would give general satisfaction to the country. I could not imagine the success of a coalition of two parties only."

FOUND DEAD

DETROIT, Monday. — Major Frank S. Winser, of the British Air Commission, was found dead in his hotel yesterday. An Embassy official told Reuter that Major Winser, who had been with the Commission only three months, had been engaged in inspecting aircraft material. He was a retired Canadian Army officer, and had lived mostly in the Dominion. He was born in Dublin in 1883.—(Reuter.)

CAPTURED AT DIEPPE

Paris Radio stated last night that one general, two colonels and 13 staff officers, in addition to 2,000 men, were taken prisoner at Dieppe.—(Reuter.)

Big Game Gets Vote for Champion Stakes

THE Champion Stakes at Newmarket tomorrow will include Hyperides and Lost, who have made progress since they met in the Derby. Lost is in receipt of 3 lbs. from Hyperides, and should be superior over a mile and a quarter. Whether he should prove their superior. Although would be a mistake to assume that this is unlikely to come successfully with three-year-olds in the field.

Mr. Churchill's Return

The Prime Minister of England returned home last night from the fifth, and most spectacular, of his war-time journeys abroad. In the course of it he visited Egypt, where he talked matters over both with General Smuts, the South African Premier, and with the Command of the Eighth Army; and thence he travelled to Moscow, where he met M. Stalin. The cause of Mr. Churchill's aeroplane has not been disclosed, and, presumably, will not be disclosed for some time; but it looks as if he may have been in fact another place after the departure from Moscow—which took place at dawn on Sunday week. His route, in any case, is less interesting than the subject-matter of his conversations in Moscow. That is another dark subject, but some light may be thrown on it when Parliament resumes; for the prevailing belief is that Mr. Churchill will take the first opportunity to discuss his visit with the House of Commons. His speech will be awaited with deep interest, in England and everywhere else—in Texas, perhaps, most of all. Much of the agitation for a "second front" on continental Europe has diminished during the past few weeks; and there has been a conspicuous lightening of the clamour since the news of last week's raid upon Dieppe. That raid, however successfully it may have fulfilled the intentions of its instigators, gave the people of Great Britain a notion of the formidable difficulties that would attend an invasion of the Continent, and must have stopped the mouths of many "armchair critics." Nevertheless, the matter of a "second front" must remain in the forefront of interest, and there can be no doubt that M. Stalin kept it in the forefront of his conversations with the British Premier and President Roosevelt's representative. According to the Russian newspapers, which are supposed to express the mind of the Kremlin, nothing except a diversion on the grand scale can bring real relief to the hard-pressed Soviet armies on the southern front. They have called upon Great Britain to honour what they interpret as a pledge implicit in the Anglo-Soviet Treaty; and some few weeks ago, when the great drive against Stalingrad was in its early stages, a tone of disillusionment, and almost of bitterness, was manifest in their editorial comments.

Mr. Churchill's visit seems to have restored confidence. Any recent Russian comments which have reached this country imply that the meeting between the leaders, if it did not result in the promise of immediate action by the Western Allies, was reassuring to M. Stalin and his military advisers. Quite possibly, Mr. Churchill formulated an alternative strategy which would be less risky than the opening of a second front on the Continent; for all that any layman knows, the second front may be already in the making. The one certainty is that the conversations did not end in failure—that there was no basic disagreement which would impair the new junction between Britain, America and the Soviet Union. Agreement was reached on something; but only time will tell what that something was. The Russian leaders are practical people, who will not be satisfied with vague assurances of friendship, with vague promises of something that will happen some day. We may be certain that whatever Mr. Churchill and Mr. Averell Harriman told M. Stalin was concrete—a guarantee that such and such action would take place on such and such a date. For the rest, the world must be content to continue guessing. Everybody has his own theory; in England, as elsewhere, prophecy ranges from the wildly fantastic to the crudely cynical. The Russians appreciate, as well as anyone else, the grave difficulties that confront the other Allied nations. Great Britain has her hands full in India, in Australia, in Libya, and on the seven seas, while it is by no means certain that the Germans even yet do not retain sufficient resources and sufficient daring to attempt an invasion of their chief enemy. The United States is not yet fully into her stride. She has been less than nine months at war. Her production has been expanded enormously, but time must pass before it can cope with the heavy demands that will be made upon it; and, rapidly as her army is growing, even the best of armies cannot be trained at a moment's notice. We doubt whether there would be any talk of a second front if Marshal von Bock's assault against the armies in southern Russia had not been so swift and so heavy; but the violence of that thrust has created a vital need for a new Allied strategy.

Idleness

"Hatred of idleness is a healthy hatred. I share it." The British Home Secretary is credited with this remark last week; and a very politic remark it is, no doubt, for one who is an important official of a belligerent nation. Modern war—and, indeed, modern neutrality—can admit of no idleness. He that is not with the State in its difficulties, to the full strength of his brain and of his brawn, is against the State. The hatred of idleness which the political originator of the day has nourished is not exclusive to Mr. Herbert Morrison, and he did not claim it to be so. "If this war has taught us anything," another distinguished speaker observed a few weeks ago, "it has taught us how to work." This lesson has not been lost even upon Ireland. There still are some, however, who hope that the war, which has taught us to work, will not obliterate altogether our memories of how to idle. They are the great idlers—like also who do nothing with application, whose hands Satan himself would have difficulty in stirring from their idleness to the activity of mischief. Many hard things have been said of them, from time to time, by the duly-see school of moralists. Scorn and contumely have been heaped upon that fellowship whose only fault, if fault it can be called, is that it has too much time to stand and stare. Nevertheless, the idler is not overcome. He is the immovable object of passive resistance. If he is in every way right that it should be so. (Genius that can be "snuffed out by an article" stands a poor chance of survival in so rough a world as this; and the capacity for doing nothing must surely be genius in its purest form. "All genius," says Havelock Ellis, "must work without rest"—but to be able to reach fulfilment only through an external activity—be it poetry writing or stamp-collecting—is a far less thing than that fulfilment should be within the man himself. The idler of the East is revered as holy; the idler of the West is a blasphemer against the gospel of work. Time, perhaps, will eventually bring this blasphemy forward as another great truth. In the meanwhile, no hatred, however healthy and home-secretarial, can sever the idler from his precious heritage. He may discard it and take to work in such an emergency as this; but any true idler will take a little trouble to secure his ideal. When normal conditions return, he will be found once again holding as his motto the saying of the president of his own fellowship: "I like work: it fascinates me. I can sit and look at it for hours."

UNINJURED AT DIEPPE
KILLED IN CRASH

The story of a Canadian corporal who "gate-crashed" into the Dieppe raid last Wednesday and returned uninjured, only to die as a result of a road accident the following day, was told at a British North coast inquest yesterday.

The soldier was Corporal Victor Samuel Allen, aged 21, formerly a Customs clerk, of Fairport Beach, Pickering, Ontario, latterly serving as a corporal in the Canadian forces, and it was stated that he joined the Dieppe raid by posing as an ambulance driver, took part in the street-fighting and returned uninjured.

Some time later he was a passenger in an Army vehicle with other Canadians, and, when the vehicle overturned, Allen received multiple internal injuries and was taken to a hospital where many of the wounded men from Dieppe were being treated. The verdict was accidental death.

AMERICA'S WAR BILL

WASHINGTON, Monday.—United States war expenditure amounted to 31 per cent. of the national income in the second quarter of this year, says a report to-day in "Survey of Current Business," a monthly publication of the Department of Commerce. This figure compares with 15 per cent. in the fourth quarter of last year, and demonstrates the progress of the war production programme since Pearl Harbour. The report disclosed that the national income had reached an annual rate in excess of £69,000,000,000.

Lord Halifax, just returned from London, conferred for an hour and a-quarter to-day with Mr. Cordell Hull, United States Secretary of State, on post-world planning. The British Ambassador said afterwards that what impressed him most in England was the offensive spirit of the people.

Questioned about the Dieppe raid and the second front, Lord Halifax said: "There is a lot of talk in Britain about the second front, representing a growth of the offensive spirit everywhere. With that spirit goes a sensible recognition that technical staff officers are the best judges of how, when and where it should be opened."—(Reuter.)

CRUISKEEN LAWN
By Myles Na gCopaleen

EXCUSE me. I beg your pardon. Excuse me for butting in like this, but I see you alone for a moment!

If you wouldn't mind coming out for a second, down here to the quiet part of the pavement.

Just for two seconds.

Yes, a little private matter, a little personal thing I want to mention to you.

Just come down here where it's private for a moment. Eh!

Just a little bit further down, where we can have a word or two alone. Eh!

No, just here, this'll be all right.

Yes, we're all right here. Nothing else with you—I suppose. Eh!

Tarrah not at all, lad; sure I'm in a hurry myself as it is.

Listen, could you lend me a fiver?

Yes, I know. I know. I know. Of course. The rather! Tell me, know. Of course you'd have it back on Thursday next at half past three or if you like I could post it and you'd have it first thing Friday morning.

I know. Yes. I understand. I know.

But it's only a matter of three or four days. I don't want to spend it or touch it. I just want to show a certain party that I have it. Matter of fact the whole thing is a formality, a sort of joke really. Eh!

Yes. I know. I suppose so. Yes.

But I mean it's not as if it was a question of lending money or anything like that, it's only for a day or two, just a sort of a formality, I mean, you needn't have the slightest doubt.

Eh!

No, I suppose not. Indeed very few of us have it and that's a fact. There's certainly no doubts about that. Yes. Ah yes. Funny thing, I'm always helping the lads out myself, fellow stuck for an odd quid for his digs and so on. Don't always get it back, either. And now and again I see us laughs, and my self a few bob short. Come on Bill, be a pal. A fiver for three days, what's that between pals? Sure mangos the good times we've had together and will again. I could see you right here on Thursday if that suits you better. Now that I come to think of it, I'll be passing this way on Thursday, if you're not here I could leave it for you with Joe in a sealed envelope, of course. What!

I know, but sure what the hell difference would three days make! I'm stuck, Bill. You're the only man I'd ask and that's the God's truth. I'd have my tongue out by the roots before I'd ask any of that breed. Eh? Who? Him? Oh no thanks, Pardon!

Well I'll tell you what, I think I know where I'd get the half of it. Could you really round with two bob?

I know. Yes. O that's true, I suppose.

Listen, Bill, I wouldn't make this confession to anybody else but I'm in a bad jam. I must have a few quid to carry me till Thursday till a certain ship comes home. I know it's tough to ask you for a fiver. Make it a quid and I'll find the rest somehow.

Eh! Yes, I know. I know. Yes. Five bob! You're not serious Eh?

I see. Yes. I know, I know.

Well listen Bill, it's not much use but I know you mean well, your heart's in the right place, won't hurt your feelings by refusing it. Thanks, old man. Nothing strange with you at all, I suppose?

DUBLIN THEATRES

Royal.—Mike Nolan's new partner, Lorna, is one of the successes of "Happy Blending, No. 4," at the Royal. As Mike's "stooge," she does not impress us as being the successful straight man which she undoubtedly is, but she is an attractive young lady, and is to advantage. Percy Bell, at the piano, also is good form, and this week our little song of the older "old favourites." Other features of the show are the singing of Leo Rowland, who played most traditional jigs and reels on Irish pipes, but also sang a lively "Rose Marie." The Three Rockettes, Moss and Annarose, pattered amusingly, but not over part of their act was the staging of Ambrose. The Royal Violettes were just as good as ever, and Violetta Alice Dawn is a delightful soprano. The Royal Orchestra, under Jimmy Campbell, presented "Lady of the Rose" for the finale, and were assisted ably by George Roswell at the organ. On the screen is "A Gentleman at Heart" and "Who is Hope Schuyler?"

Gaiety.—And So To Laugh," the latest O'Dea-O'Donovan production, at the Gaiety Theatre, last night entered its fourth week. The versatility of Jimmy O'Dea seems to increase with every appearance, and the author, Harry O'Donovan, has provided excellent material for the star, which includes Mary Devitt, Josephine O'Hagan, Mary Pawsley, and Denis Barry.

Olympia.—Frothy and bubbles best describes "Just Married," Farcical comedy, by Adelaide Matthews and Anne Nicholas, which Carl Gorst Productions staged at the Olympia Theatre last night. The two authors do their best to stretch their sense to three acts by taking their characters through a somewhat familiar maze of comings and goings, but it is not long before it gets down to the serious requiring much efficient treatment that it got last night. The dialogue was too fizzy and the players not always certain of their lines, and the action, although Edwin and Evelyn Lund were most decorative as Mr. and Mrs. Makepeace Wilber, Malachi Keegan did his best with the part of Percy Lowe, but was not quite convincing. Others who were [illegible] erratic were as the [illegible] Robert Adams, steadied up. Dicta Ramsay was not opposite Roberts, but was too stiff. Mrs. Roberts, Agnes and Jean Gorman as the easily-excited Delphine and the French girl Violette—a quick conception of the part—and Carl Cloyet as Mr. Roberts, Master of Ceremonies, and Johnny Wilber, a spiritual person. The Arcadians and "Travellers" Band, with the orchestra, under Mr. R. Bolton, were very enjoyable.

Capitol.—The fourth edition of "Parade in Rhythm" consists more of the same ingredients as were in the first three, but the bill is the musical best. Ronnie Ronalde and Jean Colin, Gorman as the easily-excited Delphine and the French girl Violette—a quick conception of the part—and Carl Cloyet as Mr. Roberts, Master of Ceremonies, and Johnny Wilber, a spiritual person. RISING FOOD PRICES

By Our World Correspondent.

DUBLIN housewives are asking their husbands for a revision in their cost-of-living bonus. Soaring food prices have caused a sorry derangement of the home-hold budget since war began, and recent further increases have made it exceedingly difficult to bring out an economic balance sheet. Here are some of the reasons for the housewives' dismay.

There is only about 4d. difference in the price of bread during the last three years, a 2lb. loaf costing 6d.; flour is controlled at 2s. per stone, as compared with previous years, when it was 2s. 8d. per stone and while. The best creamery butter is controlled at 1s. 9d. per lb., as compared with 1s. 7d. of last year. Cheese has shown an increase of about 2d. per lb. during the last year. Tea is 4s. per lb., as compared with 2s. 4d. per lb. of last year, and the varying prices of 2s., 2s. 6d., 3s. and 3s. 4d. of pre-war days, and sausages are 1s. 10d. per lb., as compared with last year's cost of 1s. 7d. per lb. Potatoes are being sold for 2s. per stone, instead of 1s. 6d. per stone last year, and 1s. per stone in 1939, and Globe turnips are being sold to-day for 3d. each, and last year they were 6d. per dozen.

LUXURY PRICES

Eating apples are confined to home-grown products, and vary from 2s. to 3s. per dozen, whereas before the war the customer had a choice of the imported fruits at 2s. per dozen, and the Irish apples at 1s. and 1s. 6d. per dozen. Tomatoes are 1s. 6d. per lb. now, as compared with the pre-war price of 8d. and 8d. per lb. Cooking plums cost 1s. 6d. per lb., instead of the pre-war figure of 10d. per lb. and 1s. 3d. per lb. of last year, while Victoria plums, which have just appeared in the shops are only for the wealthy, costing 3s. 6d. per lb., exactly double the price of last year. The milk pudding, which made its appearance at most dinner tables with monotonous regularity, may now be regarded as a luxury dish, for rice now costs 1s. 10d. per lb., where before the war, it could be bought for 4d. and 6d. per lb., and for years for 1s. per lb. Semolina shows a similar increase from the pre-war figure of 6d. per lb. to 1s. 10d. per lb. Tapioca and macaroni are not obtainable. Biscuits have gone up 3d. per lb., if you can get them. Bacon showed no increase during the past year, and an increase of about 6d. per lb. during the war years. This, however, is unlikely to interest the majority of housekeepers, who have been vainly trying to buy it for the past few weeks.

Other commodities which have risen to luxury prices are strawberry jam at 1s. 3½d. per lb., marmalade 1s. 5½d., as compared with last year's price of 1s. per lb. Cornflour is now 1s. 2d. per lb., and it was 8d. per lb. last year, while sugar now costs 4½d. per lb., an increase of 1½ since last year. Cauliflowers are other items which have become luxuries at 1s. each, compared with last year's price of 6d. and pre-war 3d. Vegetable marrows vary from 6d. to 2s. each, and three years ago they varied from 4d.

WEDDINGS

Lane-Duggan.—The wedding took place on Friday last at Holy Trinity Church, Rathmines, of Mr. James O. Lane, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Lane, 6 Forward road, Terenure, and Miss M. G. Duggan, daughter of the late Mr. James F. Duggan and of Mrs. Duggan, 18 Castlewood avenue, Rathmines, Dub. The bride was given away by her brother, Mr. Harold Duggan, and was attended by the bridegroom's sister, Miss Dagmar Lane. Mr. Edward J. Norman was best man. After the ceremony a family reception was held at the Clarence Hotel. The honeymoon is being spent in the West of Ireland.

Martin-Martin.—The wedding took place yesterday at St. Paul's Church, Sandymount, of Mr. Desmond Martin, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. Fleetwood Martin, Mobhi road, Glasnevin, and Miss Anne Jean Martin, elder daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Martin, and ward of Mr. F. A. Stodart, 14 Sandymount park, Dublin. The marriage was performed by the Rev. T. Parkins, C.C., and Nuptial Mass was celebrated by the Rev. Father Martin. The wedding breakfast was held at the Shelbourne Hotel. The honeymoon is being spent in the West of Ireland.

Hyans-O'Malley.—The wedding took place yesterday at St. Paul's Church, Sandymount, of Mr. Desmond Hyans, O.B.E., son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Hyans, of Dublin. The bride, who was given away by her brother, Mr. T. A. Martin, had also pre-deceased her father. Bridesmaids were Miss Mabel Martin, Miss Dorothy Martin, and Miss Eva Martin. Best man was Mr. Desmond Hyans, and Mrs. Fleet left for the South of Ireland on their honeymoon.

CORDUROYS SCARCE

(By a Staff Reporter.)

Within the next few weeks corduroy trousers may disappear from Irish shops. While making a casual inquiry about the fate of the old school blazer yesterday, I stumbled across a delightful piece of information, when the representative of a well-known Dublin drapery firm told me that the symbol of all that is arty and crafty was to be no more.

Since the beginning of the war corduroy trousers have ousted the board and long hair as a hallmark of the artist. Occasionally these three features were combined in the worthy of a Greek statue, but usually they were the outstanding marks of the artistic temperament, and unobtrusively—but by wearing corduroy trousers of blue, green, red, or luscious purple.

Now, however, anxious to avoid panic in Bohemia, we have assumed that adequate precautions are being taken, corduroy should serve their purpose for at least three years, and by that time the war may be over. If it is not, it is almost certain that factories for the repair of travel cars, broken or otherwise, will have been established throughout the country.

The possibility of a black market in corduroys developing is remote; but it is known that there are in the country many considerable stocks of grey corduroys. Should these make the place ostensibly of their more artistic brethren, it is hoped that they will be quickly snapped up by penniless but hearty young disciples who have a taste for the rough. It is rumoured, moreover, that they will be sold exclusively from pre-war stocks, and will require the forfeiture of eleven coupons.

LONDON LETTER

50 FLEET STREET, LONDON,
Monday Night.

BRITISH jam manufacturers will soon be receiving many thousands of tons of black-berries from the English countryside. The crop this year has been a very good one, but not as heavy as the plum crop, which approaches a record figure. Plums have been so plentiful that one out of every five pots of jam delivered to retailers for some months to come will be plums. In contrast to most pre-war deliveries, however, the new plum jam will be of full fruit standard, and should be a favourite with housewives.

Woollen Merchants

Woollen merchants fall, roughly, into two groups—those who supply tailors and dressmakers with single garment lengths, and those who supply drapers or stores and clothiers or makers-up with quarter or half pieces. As raw material for general cloth has become very restricted, three-quarters of the orders many houses are now receiving are for utility cloths, on which the profit margin was not allowed to exceed one-sixth, and is now further restricted to 15 per cent. Many traders claim that distribution cannot be done at this figure, allowing the usual discounts, even with maximum overheads. They are allowed a substantially higher profit on non-utility lines, and, as the proportion of these has decreased, are finding things more and more difficult. The firms supplying tailors and dress-makers are more cheerful, as their customers are principally concerned with general clothes.

Famous K.C.'s Play

Success in a play has come once again to Sir Patrick Hastings, K.C., who, apart from one successful play, has written several which did not catch on. Many women still believe it.

AN IRISHMAN'S DIARY

Mr. Tilmarsh's Travels

I happened to glance the other day through one of the earliest of the modern-style "travel books"—an "Irish Sketch Book," written by a gentleman by the name of M. A. Titmarsh. It was published just a hundred years ago, and the real author (as the deliberately Charles Lever—reveals) was none other than the famous novelist, William Makepeace Thackeray.

His journey to Ireland was made by the Holyhead mail boat, and took the "brief" time of six hours. He stayed at what was then, and still is, one of Dublin's premier hotels, at what he very justly terms "the very moderate daily charge of six and eightpence."

Immediately upon landing, he remarks upon "a hideous relick, stuck upon four fat balls, and surmounted with a crown on a cushion (the latter were no bad emblems, perhaps, of the esteem in whose honour they were raised), which commemorates the event of the visit George IV. quitted Ireland. After that glorious event Dunleary dindained to be Dunleary any longer, and became Kingstown henceforward and for ever. Hence-forward, yes—but not for ever.

Educational

At this season of the year Thackeray's comments on the advertisements for "educational establishments" in Saunder's Newsletter (which he bought for fourpence) are of especial interest.

He remarks, in particular, upon the enormous number of prize-winners at some of the schools. At Beelzebub House Seminary, under Dr. T. L. Burke, ex-Scholar, T.C.D., it was claimed that 200 prizes were presented at the midsummer examinations. Dr. Delamere, ex-Scholar,

ACID STOMACH

Where's that sunny smile, that merry whistle, that schoolboy appetite, this morning? Why is he so glum and won't touch his breakfast? The answer is ACID STOMACH! Excess acid sours the stomach and upsets the system . . . naturally you feel out-of-sorts and the thought of food is nauseating. Take a little 'Milk of Magnesia' or two 'Milk of Magnesia' brand Tablets, and that sick, sour feeling disappears almost instantly. For 'Milk of Magnesia,' promptly neutralizes the excess acid responsible for the upset. The stomach is soothed and strengthened, appetite returns and digestion proceeds in comfort. Flatulence, heartburn, nausea, indigestion and all stomach troubles due to excess acidity vanish in a marvellous manner on taking 'Milk of Magnesia.' It is the antacid most acceptable to the stomach and the one most extensively prescribed by doctors for patients of all ages. Keep it in readiness as a quick, safe and pleasant corrective for an acid stomach.

Obtainable everywhere.

'Milk of Magnesia' 1/3 and 2/6 (Treble Size). Also 'Milk of Magnesia' Tablets 6d., 1/-, 2/- and 5/6.
